

Walk-Over Shoes

for the
Correctly Dressed Young Man

We make a specialty of pleasing young men who wish their feet correctly dressed. It is easy to please hard to please folks with Walk-Over shoes. This is the "dope" model, a modified high toe style, carrying a moderate heel, makes an especially attractive appearance on the foot, fits perfectly and holds its shape excellently.

The Critic model is the newest of the large city styles, very flat receding toe, low heel, a model especially designed for critical and fastidious dressers.

CHICAGO LETTER

By Fred C. Charles.

Both the republican and democratic ballots at the Illinois primary, were more than five feet long in Cook county. There must have been twenty-five officers to nominate, and there were no less than a hundred names on each ticket. Of course none save the professional politicians know more than a dozen or so names on either ticket.

An ingenious Chicago chap suggests a round ballot, consisting of a number of wheels, the names of the offices to be nominated for the hubs, with the names of the candidates radiating therefrom spoke fashion. He argues that, among other things, the round ballot would do away with the jealous fight among candidates for first place on the ticket.

But to a man up a tree it would seem that the round ballot is merely a device for propagating the existing evil. The short ballot seems to be the answer.

Bill Murphy, hobo, dropped into Hogan's place, became involved in an altercation over the price of a drink, and was kicked out. A big cop gathered him up from the side walk and took him to the police station.

It occurred to Murphy that 30 days in a hospital would be much softer than 30 days in the work house. So he up and had a fit all over the place, kicking up his heels, and trying his best to froth at the mouth. When an ambulance arrived a light dawned on the ambulance surgeon. "It's a serious case," he said, "we'll have to operate to remove his bone of contention."

Murphy got over his fit in a hurry. "Honest, doc," he said, "I ain't sick," and he went to his cell without further protest.

A Chicago newspaper carries a classified ad in the lost column for a "Persian lamb collar." Evidently from the zoo.

Two young matrons on the west side who, up until last week, have been as lasses, have quarrelled over their Easter hats, or something of that sort, and now both are going to move to get away from each other. Unknown to each other they have both rented suites in the same apartment house, and after they move they will find themselves closer together than before. The neighbors, who enjoy the confidence of both women, are keeping mum and sticking around for the big show.

The cable announcing the rumored death of the Pope caught the Chicago afternoon papers on the opening day of the base ball season. Sporting extras were all shot to pieces, of course. It would be interesting to know just how much the false alarm cost the newspapers and press association in time, composition, and telegraph tolls.

The incident brings to mind the rumor of Roosevelt's death when he was in Africa—several hundred miles from a telegraph station. It was estimated that on that occasion American newspapers spent $1,000,000 trying to verify the rumor. It took two days to dispatch native runners from Mombasa to the Roosevelt camp, who returned with the story that the Col. was unharmed.

After the smoke had cleared away, and the people were wondering how the tale ever started in the first place, it was discovered that a man in Cleveland, who had been reading of the perils of big game hunting in Africa, got to thinking that some evil might befall T. R. He called up a morning paper to see if anything really had happened, but the man at the newspaper end of the wire got the query twisted into a statement that Roosevelt had really been killed.

The Cleveland papers queried the press associations, who queried New York, who queried Washington, who queried Oyster Bay, London and Mombasa. The excitement endured for two days or more, and the suspense was terrible for the Teddy fans while it lasted.

(End of Chicago letter.)

A GRAND GOOD WOMAN GONE.

Mrs. Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross society, died at her home in Glen Echo, Md., April 12, of pneumonia. Miss Barton was born in 1821, and was therefore 90 years of age. Her good work will live for ever and her name be sacred to everyone that knows of her sacrifice for humanity. Her great work of relief was started when she was but 40 years old, thus making a half century of organized endeavor in the cause of mercy. She was well educated and taught in the public schools previous to the organization of the Red Cross. Her work was not only local, state wide, National—but was inter-national.

The society will mourn a leader, as the name Clara Barton is in itself a promise. Although out of active service for a number of years, she kept in touch with the details of its activity.

Helps About the Kitchen.

Milk keeps from souring longer in a shallow pan than in a milk pitcher. Deep pans make an equal amount of cream.

Lard will keep fresh much longer if one or two potatoes are cooked in it while trying it out.

Ordinary coarse sandpaper is the very best thing to clean scorched kettles.

To remove the tiny substance from the inside of a teakettle, boil a few potato peelings in it for an hour with plenty of water.—Home Department in National Magazine for April.

STATISTICS PROVE PHYSICIANS THEORY

We frequently hear people say that there is no excuse for vaccination, that it does not prevent smallpox and that the result of vaccination is worse than the disease. The following statement from A. L. Dixon, secretary of the Michigan State board of health, should convince the most skeptical of the merits of the vaccination theory:

"During the first three months of 1912 there were reported 283 cases of smallpox in Michigan. The vaccination history of these cases is as follows:

2	"	14 years ago
1	"	years ago.
1	"	at time of exposure
1	"	12 years ago
1	"	infancy and 10 yrs ago
1	"	about 10 years ago
1	"	some 10 years ago
1	"	1 week after exposure
10	"	about 3 years ago
1	"	some years previous
2	"	in childhood
2	"	when very young
1	"	30 years ago
2	"	6 years ago
1	"	2 years ago
1	"	4 years ago
1	"	5 years ago
5	"	doubtful if ever
245	"	never vaccinated

It costs Michigan $150,000 a year to take care of indigent smallpox patients and to protect the unvaccinated.

IN LANSING THIS WEEK

V. R. Hungerford went to Lansing Wednesday to attend a meeting of the Michigan State Reading Circle Board. Mr. Hungerford is president of the board. He will also attend a meeting of the superintendents of city and village schools of the state.

WHO COMES BACK?

We know very well that it's the customers who come back that makes a business good. E. Smith & Co. are making "come back" prices in their one-half off shirt sale this week. Special prices on Cravenettes and Slip-ons Rain Coats. Our business an industry, not a game. Come and be convinced.

Tramp Not Wholly Lost.

A tramp stealing a ride on a train jumped off as it passed a burning hotel, aroused the sleeping lodgers and, his rescue work done, regained his place on the bumpers before the train left the yards. A pretty full volume of comment on American human nature is contained in the brief report of the incident.

Sun-Worn Curtains.

In cases where a pair of curtains must do for another season and they are too sun-worn in the middle to serve, cut away the sun-worn portions, and sew across, then where sewn use a cord or ribbon, and, if neither of these are at hand, make a couple of straps of old linen, and use them to tie the curtains back at the place they are spliced. Old linen bows, well starched, are neat.

A Definition.

The dream is conversation arranged.—Lady Gregory.

More Than That in Life.

It would be a bad day for humanity if a man's debt to his fellow-men should come to be calculated and paid solely in rates and taxes.

The Ideal Architect.

"As I understand it," said the architect, "you want me to build a typical modern apartment building." "That's it," said the builder. "Hardwood floors, mahogany finishing, gas grates, tiled bathrooms and all that—you know, make it swell." "Sure, I see. Good appearance. Big living room? Yes. Plate rail in the dining room, and alcove for sideboard? I get it. Spacious front hall? Uh-huh." "You've got the idea exactly." "And about half the entire space is to be given to the living room and library. Three-fourths of what is left goes to the dining room and kitchen. What's left over is to be divided up into bedrooms?" "Fine! You are the ideal architect—the one I've been looking for!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
